Sponsorship Opportunities 2019

OPEN
SECURITY SUMMIT
Supported by OWASP

ABOUT THE SUMMIT
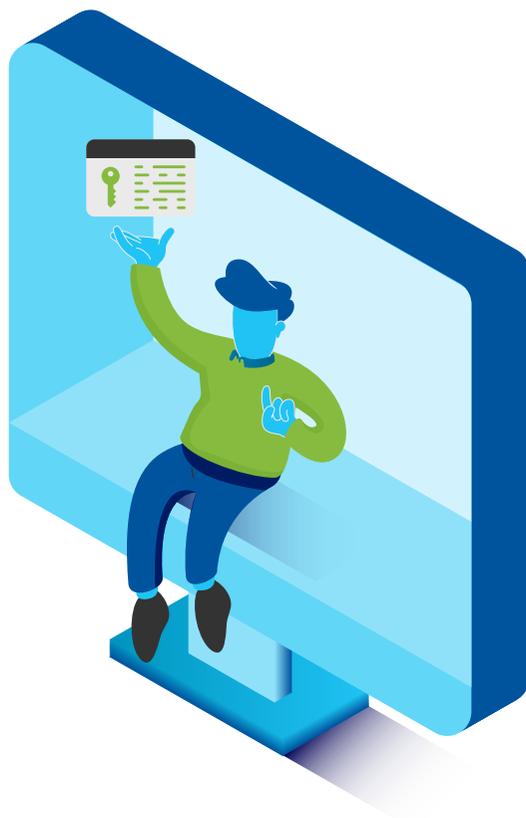

Are you tired of traditional conferences where you shuffle from room to room trying to find nuggets of useful information? Would you rather spend your time working with small, diverse teams to further a goal? If your answer is yes, then the Open Security Summit is the place for you.

Following last year's success, 2019 welcomes the second Open Security Summit. Using the same model as previous OWASP Summits, this 5-day event will be a high-energy experience, focused on facilitating collaboration between Developers and Cybersecurity professionals. Each day, a series of participant-led working and user sessions will enable attendees to create solutions for real world problems in the stimulating company of fellow experts.

The Open Security Summit wouldn't be possible without the support of our generous sponsors. Each sponsor has different reasons for supporting this event. Some see it as a fantastic opportunity for staff development, some wish to further the open source cause and others support us in order to close the skills gap in Cybersecurity.

This document will give you the details of our sponsorship packages and opportunities.

TOREON

"The summit feeds energy into solving real world problems and provides great opportunities for collaboration with experts and others facing the same issues in their workplace. We sponsored the 2018 summit's Women in Tech track with an aim of closing the gender gap in the security environment. This was money well spent and it was great to see so many like-minded individuals huddled together to reach the same goal."
